Placentia resident Michael White plans to continue his efforts to clean up graffiti in his neighborhood.

Two residents start own fight against graffiti

By Pamela Krebs
North County News

Kerry Creeden and Michael White are taking the fight against graffiti into their own hands.

After seeing graffiti at the Bradford Village Shopping Center on Bradford Avenue last month, White decided he would buy some paint and cover it over himself.

He's not alone.

Creeden, who owns a pet grooming store in the shopping center, spends her Sundays removing graffiti from store windows, walls and sidewalks.

"It mars the scenery," said White, who has lived on Primrose Avenue for 27 years. "It's very offensive to me.

"It angers me that people don't seem to have any respect for other people's property."

While graffiti long has been a problem in Placentia, Geoff Cobbett, the city's maintenance service superintendent, said taggers and gang members are expanding their reach, moving north of Chapman Avenue.

However, he said the city can't afford to hire graffiti removal specialists fast enough to combat the growing problem.

Last year, the city spent $50,000 on graffiti removal.

This year, however, no money was budgeted for graffiti removal from private property. The Public

Police will experiment with 12½-hour shifts

By Vik Jolly
North County News

Placentia patrol officers are gearing up for a 12½-hour, three-day work weeks as part of a contract agreement that officials said may reduce overtime hours.

The new work week was approved by City Council members on Oct. 6 and will be implemented Oct. 25 for a nine-month trial period, officials said.

It gives the department's 21 patrol officers four days off a week and requires them to work an additional 10-hour day once a month.

The department has 51 sworn officers and was paying overtime for replacements when an officer was either sick, on vacation or attending a workshop, said Capt. Daryll will be six under the new schedule.

"We'll be safer out on the street," he said.

Officers had agreed to try the

DEVELOPMENT

Planners OK gated project

By Pamela Krebs
North County News

Planning commissioners on Tuesday approved the city's first gated subdivision.

By a 5-0 vote, A-M Homes was given permission to build 120 single-family detached homes on a 22.8-acre site.

The gated subdivision is bordered by Alta Vista Street to the north and Central Avenue to the east. The Alta Vista Country Club borders the property to the west and north.

About 480 people are projected to occupy the development.

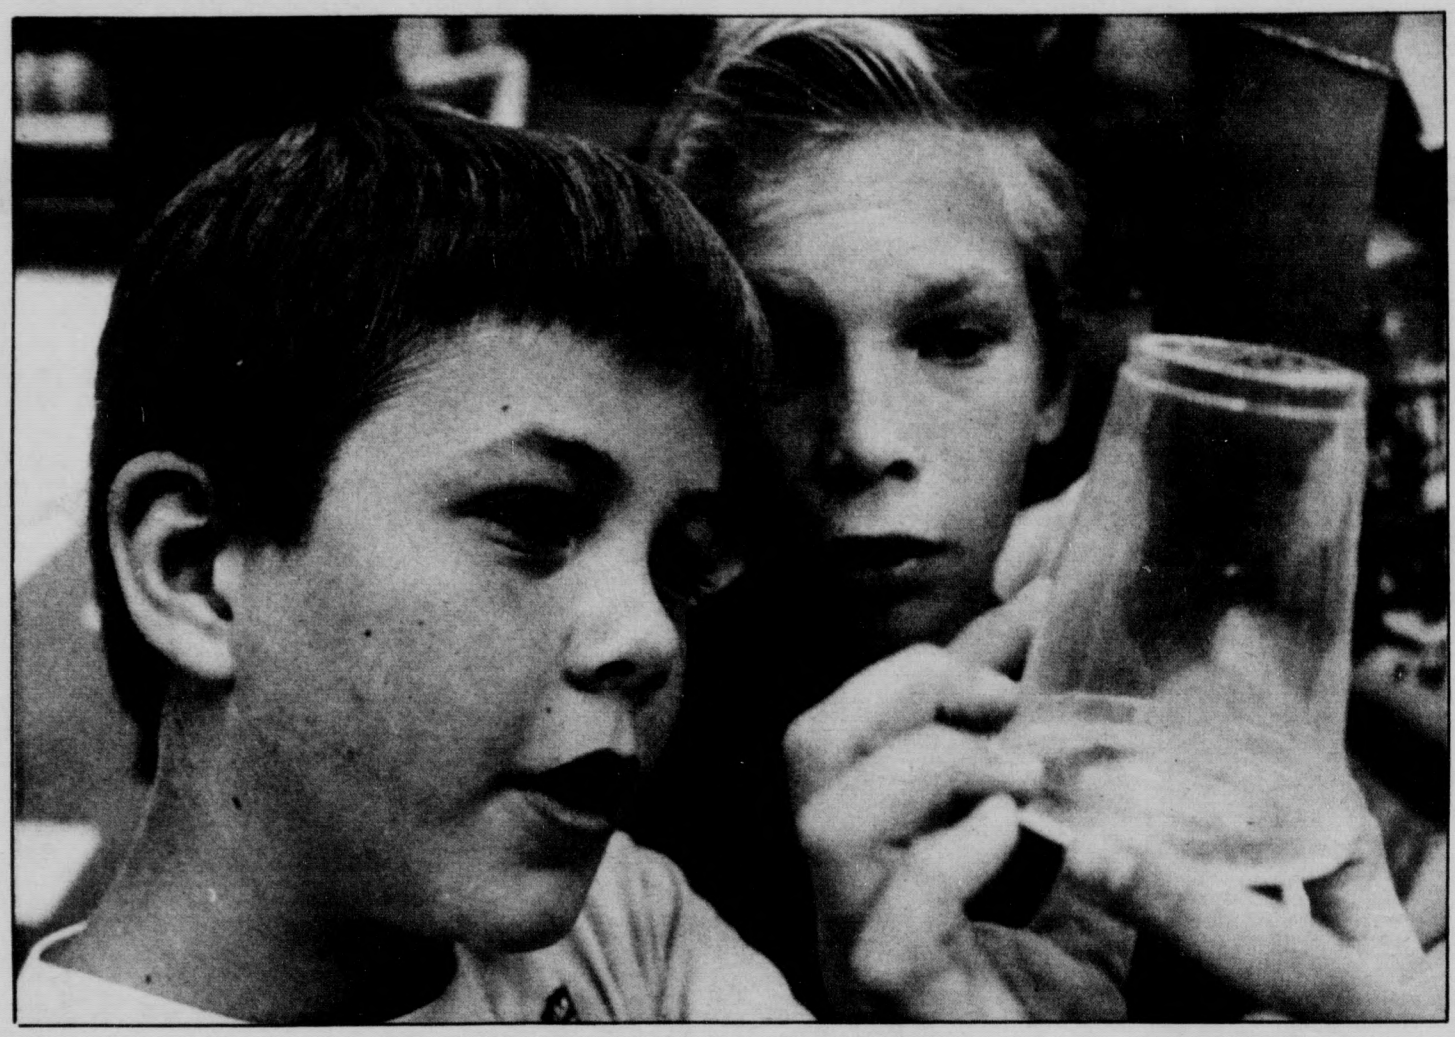

The property was formerly used for oil production by Unocal, which produced oil for more than 60 years, said Bob Liewer, vice president of Forward Planning in Newport Beach. In August, a two-year soil remediation process was completed.

According to Liewer, the homes should be priced in the high $200,000 range.

Grading of the site will begin in November followed by construction beginning in December. The model homes will open in January.

A-M Homes plans to build another 84 townhomes north of Alta Vista Street surrounded by the housing tract to the north and west. The project will provide housing for about 250 residents.

Although the tract map for the townhomes has been approved, the development plan hasn't received the OK from the city.

Hands-on science

Students conduct tests to solve crime mystery

By Tenny Tatusian
North County News

Glenview Elementary School students were busy last week not with math or reading but with solving a mystery.

A visit from University of California, Berkeley forensic specialists resulted in an artificial crime scene with younger students trying to figure out who stole a teddy bear while older children searched for a murderer.

Students walked through 15 stations, each station offering a different aspect of criminal investigating. From fiber tests, to fingerprinting to chromatography, students conducted their own tests to narrow the clues.

"We're doing this to affect how they feel about science when they're older," forensics specialist Kevin Beals said. "It's kind of like a hook. They're doing pH tests, but we don't call it that. When they get older what they'll remember is the intrigue of solving a mystery. We're getting them to feel successful with science."

Students Simone Placencia, Stephaine Vasquez and Lindsay Bardsley were close to narrowing the list of four suspects during their investigative pursuits.

Candidates offer views on city

Hill: Environment is important issue

By Pamela Krebs
North County News

ELECTION '92

Editor's note: This is the third in a series of profiles of the 12 candidates for Placentia City Council in the Nov. 3 election. This week, Gary Hill, Howard Nodler and Linda Smith are profiled.

Gary Hill is concerned about the preserving the city's water supply.

Even though it appears the water supply is adequate, the City Council candidate believes the city should prepare for more years of drought.

Instead of depending on water from Northern California, the city should insist that untreated water from local wells be used for landscaping and to irrigate crops.

Using local water would reduce the cost and the amount of energy used to transport treated water, Hill said.

He believes Placentia needs to focus on environmental issues. Reducing traffic would result in less noise and air pollution, he said. Resynchronizing the light signals to improve traffic flow and increasing public transportation would reduce traffic, Hill said.

"I have positive solutions in our community with respect to the environment," he said.

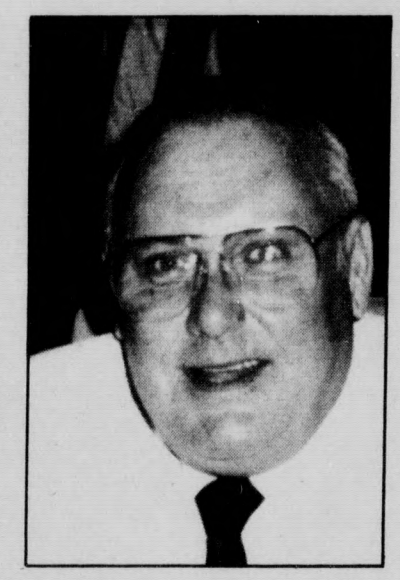

Hill, 53, is a senior environmental laboratory test engineer for Parker Hannifin Corp. in Irvine and has lived in Placentia for 15 years. He has served one term on the Placentia Plannning Commission and almost completed a second term but had to resign to run for council.

Placentia is facing serious budgetary challenges, he said.

"I don't want to impose tax increases. If necessary, we'll have to be able to reduce working hours with city employees as a last option," Hill said.

He also sees a need to generate more sales tax by attracting new businesses to the city.

Hill is a member of the Placentia Founder's Society and the Orange County chapter of the Institute of Environmental Sciences. He's a Navy veteran and a member of the Placentia's American Legion Post 277.

Gary Hill

Hill said he has a genuine desire to serve the community. If elected, he said he would look to residents for ideas and complaints.

Nodler: City needs controlled growth

By Pamela Krebs
North County News

Howard Nodler prides himself on having no political affiliations or loyalties to "any existing entity."

"By being in that position there's no allegiance with anyone that has to be held up," Nodler said. "I'm a virgin to the political world."

Nodler, 45, said if he's elected to council he will concentrate on long-term planned city expansion that reflects the needs of residents.

"The particular expansion should match the area it's going in," he said.

Placentia needs quality shopping centers, he said, "not just another run-of-the-mill shopping center that could be found a mile away on Yorba Linda Boulevard." He said there is a need for such businesses as a gourmet grocery store.

"The city needs gradual controlled growth that ultimately results in higher property values and an attraction of more affluency to the neighborhoods," he said.

His view is that the city has enough apartment complexes and additional high density building would over burden the city's resources and schools.

He believes the city could cut costs by enlisting the help of community volunteers.

Council members should be limited to two terms in office, he said.

"People tend to get complacent," Nodler said. "The longer someone is in a position of power, the more they tend to have self-interest groups magnetize themselves to them for their own good."

Nodler, the chief financial officer for Community Hospital of Gardena, said he wants to curb gang activity by holding the parents of gang members responsible for their children.

"Their parents have to be held accountable," he said.

A curfew should be enforced for children under a certain age, he said.

Community groups should organize to reach out to gang members and their parents, he said.

He would like to continue the efforts of the Placentia Community Youth Partnership, which was formed earlier this year on the recommendation of the Gang/Drug Advisory Committee.

If elected, he believes he would be receptive and attentive to the needs of residents.

Nodler has lived in Placentia for four years. He has a bachelor's degree in business administration from Temple University in Philadelphia. He also is a U.S. Air Force Vietnam veteran.

Howard Nodler

Smith: Contain costs before taxing

By Pamela Krebs
North County News

As a stay-at-home mom, Linda Smith said she's in touch with the needs of the residents of Placentia.

She believes term limits should be established at two consecutive terms.

"Individuals who want to make a career in politics should be rotated in different positions," she said.

After more than two consecutive terms, she said, elected officials start directing their energies toward special interest groups.

Smith, 42, wants to maintain a "sound fiscal government." Taxes and fees shouldn't be raised until all avenues of cost containment have been exhausted, she said.

She encourages city employees to live in Placentia because she beleives those who reside in the city will be more devoted than those who live elsewhere.

Increasing police patrols in high crime areas is one solution to curbing crime, she said.

In addition, the parents of gang members should be held accountable for the actions of their children, she said. Part-time work programs for at-risk youth should be made available to juvenile offenders.

To cut city spending, she believes there is an abundance of volunteers who could donate their time to the city, schools and police department.

"There're all kinds of ways I can see volunteers of all ages being of use. I think all of us would benefit," Smith said.

She suggests recruiting senior citizens to help with clerical work at the Police Department as a viable use of volunteers.

If elected, she said she could offer many creative and innovative ideas to local politics.

Intelligent planning is another priority for Smith. The city should carefully plan the remaining acres of open land to benefit the residents of the city, she said.

"The city planning process should be a product of long-range planning," she said.

Smith said the city should avoid high-density building to preserve the quality of life.

"I want to maintain it's status as an All-America city," she said.

Newton leads in funds

Incumbent has raised most money

By Pamela Krebs
North County News

Councilman Arthur Newton has raised the most money from independent sources so far in the race for a seat on City Council.

Newton, who is seeking his third consecutive term, has raised $1,500 in campaign contributions.

Campaign disclosure statements were due last week for the 12 City Council candidates vying for three four-year terms.

Candidates must submit two more campaign disclosure statements, which are due Oct. 22 and Jan. 31.

Newton received a contribution of $1,000 from Committee for the Independence of the Downey Municipal Courts, a group based in Orange. Another $500 contribution came from the Placentia Police Association.

Newton's expenditures total $845 for sign and envelope printing.

Councilwoman Maria Moreno has raised $1,364 in her effort to retain her seat.

Moreno has spent $1070, most of which went to pay for her candidate statements in the ballot.

Challenger Gary Hill, a former Planning Commissioner, reported a campaign fund of $2,750, all of which came from a loan from himself. His expenditures total $2,053, mostly on campaign posters and advertising.

Mayor John Tynes, who is running for his fifth council term, reported a campaign fund of $2,728. Tynes reported expenditures of $1,279, most of which was spent on signs, cards and his candidate statement.

His largest contribution of $500 came from Albert S. Bradford of Pala, Calif. and he recieved $250 from the Placentia Police Association. The bulk of his contributions were loans to himself.

Former Planning Commissioner Michael Maertzweiler has collected $2,657 in contributions and spent $2,143 on printing signs and campaign paraphernalia.

Adrienne Edmondson has contributions totaling $1,988. Her expenditures total $1,931. Edmondson has funded most of her costs which were spent on campaign signs and literature.

Festive weekend

Heritage Festival and Parade draw 10,000

By Pamela Krebs
North County News

More than 10,000 people attended the 28th annual Heritage Festival and Parade celebrated Saturday at Kraemer and Bradford parks.

This year's theme, "Discover Placentia," marked the 500th anniversary of Columbus' arrival in America.

The day was punctuated with music, food and smiling faces.

"We were real happy with the weekend and had a lot of support," said Steve Pischel, recreation superintendent.

Some of the highlights include the classic car contest held at Kraemer Park. About 50 cars entered. Live entertainment by guitarist Fernando Olivares, the rock band Stations, Mariachi Tlaquepaque and the Whitten Ballet Folklorico performed at Kraemer Park.

More than 40 crafters displayed their wares at Bradford Park.

The event was sponsored by the Heritage Committee and the Placentia Recreation Department.

During the 33 years Jesse Avila has lived in Placentia, he's gone to almost all the festivals, he said.

"I like the fact that everybody gets together and enjoys themselves," he said. "It unites people and gets them away from the same old thing."

Avila will continue to attend the event as long as he lives in Placentia, he said. He likes the event so much he wishes the festival would take place twice a year.

Lois Brouws of Chino said her favorite part of the festival was McGruff the Crime Dog who danced in the parade. It so happened that her daughter was underneath the McGruff costume.

Although she enjoyed just about everything at the event, she said there could have been more activities for children.

Seven-year-old Nick of Placentia didn't seem to mind. He said he liked the parade because, "it was good."

For the first time the Harvest Hoe-Down was held the same weekend as the Heritage Festival and Parade. Between 800 and 1,000 festival goers attended the event on Sunday.

"It was a fun afternoon for everyone and we look forward to doing it next year," said Lori Jarmacz, recreation program assistant.

The country-Western event featured square dancing, crafters, pony rides, country music and displays.

The Whole Enchilada restaurant won the salsa contest followed by Q Tortas and El Farolito. Eight Placentia Restaurants served their best salsa to 284 people who voted for their favorites.

The Harvest Hoe-Down is sponsored by the Cultural Arts Committee and the Placentia Recreation Department.

School parenting programs receive state, federal grants

By Bruce Bailey
North County News

Two parenting programs for students received healthy shots in the arm Tuesday.

The Placentia Yorba Linda Unified School District Board of Trustees unanimously accepted the state's renewal of a $76,918 contract for the Parenting and Infant Development program and a federal block grant of $104,774 for the Child Care for Teen Parents.

Sharon McHolland, district assistant superintendent of educational services, said the grants are particularly welcome because the programs have grown. Seven years ago, the district had six school-age parents and/or pregnant minors. Now there are 30.

Both programs, in existence since 1985 at the El Dorado High School, also serve Anaheim, Brea, Fullerton and unincorporated parts of the county.

The board also unanimously adopted a resolution for emergency repairs to gas lines at El Dorado High School.

Kim Stallings, assistant superintendent for administrative services, said all the leaks were minor. The resolution enables the district to replace damaged underground piping in a timely manner, ensuring the continued operation of the school's kitchen and preventing disruptions of the home economics, science and physical education programs.

In another matter, Ann O'Rourk, district director of testing, said the district's third-, fifth-, seventh- and 10th-graders scored from one to two years above the national norms in reading, language arts and mathematics.

District opens 2 reservoirs

By Bruce Bailey
North County News

The Yorba Linda Water District opens two new reservoirs Friday at its Elk Mountain site.

Bill Robertson, the district's general manager, said the Elk Mountain Reservoir holds 6 million gallons of water. It cost $3.5 million, including booster pumps, and was paid for by the sale of general obligation bonds.

The reservoirs allow the district to pump more than 60 percent well water, it saves on imported water.

"It costs $350 an acre foot to import water and $100 an acre foot to pump it, so the saving is significant," assistant administrator Mike Robinson said.

An acre foot equals 326,000 gallons.

Robertson said the reservoir is located in the middle of a residential area and is the first to have a passive park built over it.

Chuck Gray, the district's engineering manager, said Elk Mountain Reservoir took two years to build and can be expanded if necessary.

The Camino de Bryant reservoir is 300 feet by 300 feet in area, 20 feet deep and holds 3.2 million gallons of water. It costs $2.5 million and also took two years to build.

Both have a one-year warranty, an industry standard, Robinson said. At the end of a year, both reservoirs, which have dividing walls to allow one side to be drained into the other for inspections, will be inspected for cracks and other plumbing problems.

Robinson said the industry's yearly average for unaccounted-for water is about 10 percent. The Yorba Linda district averages 5 percent in annual water loss, one of the lowest rates in Orange County, Robinson said.

Gray said the reservoirs are designed to earthquake standards that exceed those set for schools and hospitals, Gray said.

The nearest fault, the Whittier-Elsinore Fault, is about one mile from the Elk Mountain reservoir and 1.5 miles away from Camino de Bryant.

The reservoirs, named for adjoining streets, are the 12th and 13th in the district, Robinson said.

Three more are on the drawing board. One will supply the Hidden Hills area, another will supply the development along Fairmont Boulevard and the third will provide water to the area east of San Antonio Road.

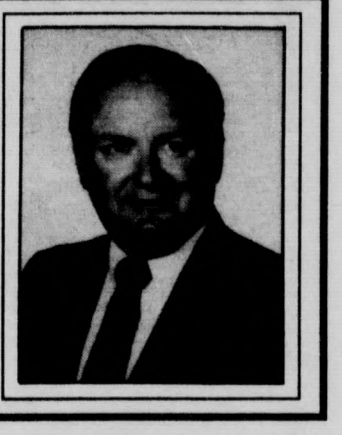

About 70 percent of the district's water goes for residential use, Robinson said. Public landscaping accounts for another 10 percent, 14 percent goes for commercial use and 1 percent for agriculture.

Citizens to Elect Mike Maertzweiler - Placentia City Council

In Orange County, Hughes is at the head of the class.

Hughes engineer Andrea Sacayan, of Orange County, discusses a science project with students at Parks Junior High School in Fullerton.

Hughes is making the most important contribution to public schools that a company can make. Our award-winning K-12 Collaborative Partnership Program not only helps students develop to their full potential, it also taps into our potential as a resource of knowledge.

In the most ambitious program of its type, Hughes' active and retired employee volunteers are teaming up with teachers and principals to formulate unique partnerships. Drawing upon our vast talent pool and state-of-the-art technology, we're helping schools take a bold step forward by motivating and nurturing students and teachers in math and science.

And it's only one aspect of our commitment to education in Orange County.

Already, students are enjoying the many benefits Hughes is bringing to the classroom. Through demonstrations, they're seeing firsthand how scientific theory is put into practice. They're creating their own science projects. Most of all, they're acquiring the tools and learning skills that will help them in all their educational and professional endeavors.

In addition to working alongside teachers, our areas of commitment include tutoring and mentoring. Developing course materials. Building and running computer and science labs and clubs. Even reaching into the community, by getting parents involved in the work we begin in the schools.

By the end of 1992, we will have established partnerships with 12 schools throughout Southern California, taking the lead in helping more and more students discover the joys of learning math and science, and the value of staying in school. We're also setting a precedent for other companies to follow. And whether we inspire a science project or a future scientist, Hughes is proud of this work. And proud of the many students who benefit from it.

Water rates increase for some residents

By Bruce Bailey
North County News

The average monthly water bills for Placentia residents in the area served by the Southern California Water Co.'s district rose by $2.01, effective Oct. 11.

The increase affects customers receiving 2,500 gallons of water as their basic service.

The Southern California Water Co. serves 9,083 customers in Placentia and 1,735 customers in Yorba Linda. Overall, the Orange District serves nearly 38,000 customers. Placentia and Yorba Linda also are served by the Yorba Linda Water District. They serve about 2,500 customers in Placentia and about 17,000 in Yorba Linda.

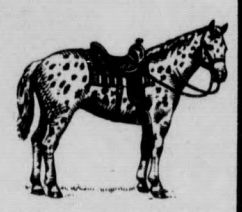

DeVine said the district has proposed another rate increase, which is before the Public Utilities Commission and would go into effect next spring if approved.

The increase proposed by the district would increase the average bill by $6.14 a month.

The Public Utilities Commission is recommending a rate increase by 75 cents. Both rate increases will cover increasing operations costs, DeVine said.

Losing weight reduces risks

Losing weight can help reduce major health risks such as hypertension, cardiovascular disease and many forms of cancer. In addition, obtaining a healthy body weight increases self-esteem and improves daily energy levels. Therefore, a weight loss program is a positive program.

The Lifestyles diet cookies/cakes program works well. Jack Myers, owner of B and B Pharmacy in Yorba Linda, has lost 30 pounds in three months, simultaneously experiencing a 40 point drop in his cholesterol level (through the cookie diet and moderate exercise).

He reports customers are losing four to 10 pounds in the first week and two to three pounds a week thereafter.

B and B Pharmacy is providing a healthy, convenient and delicious meal replacement for weight loss and management. The Lifestyles diet cookies/cakes are nutritionally sound. In addition, they are full of fiber and sweetened naturally with fructose. They provide a safe, great tasting meal that can be taken anywhere and they do not require refrigeration or additional preparation. The cookies/cakes are available in 12 flavors.

Myers says the Lifestyles program is a good way to help people be their healthiest selves.

Parking classroom in a garage working well

It might not be a return to the one-room school of the past, but it's close.

The next time someone tries to convince you that new, expensive, public school facilities are needed to educate an overflowing population, ask them to take a page from Fullerton Union High School District's book of solutions.

Teacher Raul Acedo was at first skeptical when he was given his teaching assignment for the semester. His classroom is a garage. The assignment was no mistake. His unique classroom is one of many located off campus as a means of teaching minorities in familiar surroundings. We give the program a passing grade for its ingenuity and potential. We hope it becomes a trendsetter.

Mr. Acedo teaches English as a Second Language in the garage located on Fifth Avenue in La Habra. Geared to adult education, it is part of the district's Alternative Continuing Education program, which currently caters to more than 2,000 students.

Does meeting in neighborhood surroundings cause any problems relative to class registration? Mr. Acedo was surprised on his first night when area residents lined up to register for his class. Thirty five applied. Ten were turned away because of space limitations.

One concern of the district is that students in Mr. Acedo's class will miss out on the technical aspects of language programs, being so far removed from on-campus classrooms. But Mr. Acedo believes the personal attention he can give in the garage classroom will make up for any technical losses.

Of one thing Mr. Acedo is sure. His students won't learn any less than they would attending a regular classroom.

If the district's experiment is successful in all aspects of education, North Orange County school districts should take the program into the regular K-through-12 education classrooms. Public educators have been looking for ways to cut the dropout rate in their schools, and at the same time improve the quality of education the young people of our communities receive. The FUHSD plan could be the answer.

And what a relief to have neighborhood schools again.

Capitalism is taught in area schools

W.C.Bowen's letter to the editor (Oct. 1 issue of the North County News) makes me proud I taught in the same district. The clear thinking and writing gives the citizens of the community some idea of the high caliber of teaching their students have received.

In the Study of History in California, the Industrial Revolution is taught in depth in the 9th grade. Capitalism became important with industrial growth. It was the only economic system at that time. In the flow of history the understanding of capitalism is necessary before a student can understand the how and why of the development of socialism.

Then the student goes on to understand how Karl Marx took socialism and developed his ideas of communism. It's all so logical and the learning (process) has direction. A teacher just can't say, " By golly, these kids have to know about capitalism" and then introduce it in any old way.

Mr. Clever, you asked the question about capitalism to the kids (at Washington School in La Habra) one year too soon. Ask a 9th grader about capitalism some day in November or December after a world history class on the Industrial Revolution. That student will be able to explain all about capitalism and the other economic systems as well.

ELECTION '92

A number of economic and other issues will face those chosen to run the city and schools in next month's election.

Ralph Begelow, 65, retired
"I would like to find out more about the candidates who are running."

Mel Brichacek, 45, carpenter
"I would like to see an explanation of the school issues."

Eva Steele, 27, domestic engineer
"The school system is concentrating on the wrong priorities. I received a questionaire asking what kind of drugs are accessable in my neighborhood."

Jim Frederickson, 57, contractor
"Jobs. More people have got to work."

Stephanie Stankovich, 22, CSULB student
"Education is the most important issue in Placentia. Quality of education is stressed in the classroom."

SAFETY

Kids facing dangers in door-to-door sales

I would like to voice my concern about the so-called Student Work Program. We have had several very articulate young people come to our door recently selling some items on behalf of the Student Work Program. These junior salespeople say the program is helping to keep them off drugs. Great! I admit I don't know much else about the program, but I feel these youngsters are being taken advantage of and I don't think their welfare and safety is being considered while they are out peddling their wares. I have the following concerns:

1. The youngsters are too young to be going door-to-door alone. Some look to be 8 or 10 years old.
2. The youngsters are too young to be out after dark alone.
3. These young people should not be dropped off in strange neighborhoods alone.
4. The selection of items for sale is bizarre and extremely overpriced. Chances for making a sale are very poor.
5. Different youngsters with the same box of goods are brought to the same neighborhoods night after night. How can they expect the same residents to buy the same items from several different kids?

Whoever is behind the program is making fools of these hard-working young kids. It may (somehow) be keeping them off drugs, but it cannot be building their self-confidence when they are being rejected time and again. If you really want to help them out by giving them a summer job, do some marketing research and give these kids something to sell that is useful to a homeowner and is reasonably priced.

Economic times are tough now. We don't mind helping out these junior salespeople occasionally, but give us something for our money! And most of all, let's see some adults out there with these youngsters. Anything can happen to youngsters these days when they are alone and it would be a shame if something bad was to happen to any of these hard-working kids!

Classification of a roof not all it's cracked up to be

As a California roofing manufacturer, it's striking that cities are adopting ordinances that require all new roofs to be rated Class A. It's striking because the ordinances' justification — the Oakland/Berkeley fire — evaporates under scrutiny. The fire resistance of a Class A roof is not what it's cracked up to be. The fire resistance "standards" of this three-decade-old roof classification system bear little resemblance to real fire situations like that of last October.

Under the system's fire procedure — ASTM E-108 — a Class A test only requires a roof to withstand fire driven by a maximum 12.5 mph wind. That's a gentle breeze compared with the reality of the Oakland/Berkely fire, where wind drove the fire at speeds of more than 40 mph. ASTM E-108 also ignores a fact about roofs known to every homeowner. Many roof surfaces deteriorate over 10 to 20 years. A new roof may pass a Class A test today, but tomorrow's rating is guesswork.

Another critical weakness in the rating system is the actual fire-testing method. A burning brand of a predetermined size and type is placed on the roof material. In real fire situations, burning materials like tree branches are not placed on a roof. They smash into a roof, and wind-driven embers find entry points through traditional tile.

A battery of tests recently conducted by the U.S. Testing Co. revealed that several popular Class B roof installations actually suppress fire longer than Class A. Nobody can automaticlly assume one class is superior to another when roofing materials, installation methods and underlayments have dramatically changed in 30 years.

These assumptions about the rating system are made worse by widespread confustion about whether A, B or C ratings categorize the actual roofing material involved, its underlayment or its method of installation. Clay and concrete tiles may not burn, for instance, but their installation method allows them to be lifted by wind, to expose flammable underlayments and the building structure.

Beyond the roof, a home's resistance to external fire depends heavily on its wall materials, whether it has wooden decks and balconies, exposed eaves, latticework and fances, and the type of condition of garden trees and shrubs. A fire-resistant roof can only maximize the chances of the roof's survival. As the Oakland/Berkeley conflagration demonstrated, anything that can burn, will burn.

The bottom line is that Class A roofs do not provide blanket fire protection. The belief that a Class A roof is more fire resistant than a Class B or Class C is at best misleading and at worst, it's downright dangerous.

School's parents see red

"The spirit is alive at Ruby Drive!" Back to School night excitement ... Ruby PTA president Janet McDonald did a super job as usual. Becky Lightfoot provided bright red balloons to complement the Ruby Drive red T-shirts, canvas totes and pennants and Pauline Schirr, school principal, introduced teachers to resounding cheers! What a school ... But, wait, there's more ... Did you know that if you send your Ralphs receipts to the school, the school gets to "buy" computer supplies and playground equipment. Now, that's an easy way for Placentia people to help a neighborhood school. And Cindy Younger, Jodi Titus, Lupe Duran, Barbara Slater, Jo-Anne Shoup, Becky Lightfoot and Lise Orwig, PTA board members, and the children send you a thank you for helping them out.

Sending "heal quickly" wishes to Al, "I broke my ankle," Shkoler. Ohhhh, more pain, more groans. The Rotarians are making plans to see the Rams and N.Y. Giants on Oct. 18, touting the season as being "very interesting." Hey, someone hasn't been watching NFL lately ... But at least Rotarian Bob Dickinson got to see the Rams beat the N.Y. Pats ... The who? OK, no more needling ... Unless you're Police Chief Manny Ortega and he says a little needling is good, especially if the needle is attached to a cactus. Plant those "security plants" along fences and underneath windows to discourage trespassers!

PERSONALITY

Sam Gangwer/North County News

Lisa Wakino-Terfehr, a community service officer for the Placentia Police Department, says it is important that residents report any suspicious activity in their neighborhoods.

Her beat is your neighborhood

Placentia community service officer's goal is crime prevention

By Pamela Krebs
North County News

Lisa Wakino-Terfehr believes most crimes can be prevented. As the community service officer for the Placentia Police Department in charge of crime prevention, it's her job to see that residents take the right steps toward protecting themselves against crime.

Wakino-Terfehr has headed the Neighborhood Watch program in Placentia for six years. There are 43 Neighborhood Watch divisions in the city. That equates to 85 percent participation citywide.

"I believe the program really works," she said.

"My job is to reduce crime and teach people to be more aware and informed."

Neighborhood Watch is a program that teaches people basic home security and keeps them updated on crime trends.

> "I believe the program really works. My job is to reduce crime and teach people to be more aware and informed."
>
> Lisa Wakino-Terfehr
> Placentia community service officer

The success of the program depends on participation. She said there are plenty of things residents can do to prevent crime.

"The most important thing is to report suspicious activity to the police department," Wakino-Terfehr said.

Reporting a potential crime before it occurs gives police the time to respond and catch the suspect in the act, she said.

Residents should record serial numbers of valuable property and jot down license numbers of cars or trucks cruising suspiciously in their neighborhoods.

Police welcome calls from residents who suspect a crime is about to occur in their neighborhoods, she said. Residents shouldn't feel they are bothering police or be embarrassed if their suspicions prove unfounded.

Wakino-Terfehr also is in charge of a new car theft prevention program, Combat Auto Theft. It allows police a means to identify stolen vehicles between the hours of 1 a.m. and 5 a.m.

Residents in the program are given a sticker to place on their cars. Between those hours police have the authority to stop any car with the yellow-and-blue sticker placed in the rear window. Police will treat the car as if it were a stolen vehicle.

According to Placentia Police Chief Manuel Ortega, car theft has steadily increased during the past six years.

Participating in the program could help police recover a vehicle sooner.

Before reporting a crime, witnesses should try to determine what happened, the time, if anyone is injured, vehicle license number, direction of flight and suspect description.

"If you make it easy for them you're opening yourself up to them," Wakino-Terfehr said.

For information about Neighborhood Watch, call the crime prevention unit at 993-8225.

GRAFFITI: Two residents start own effort

FROM A1

Works Department now only removes graffiti from public buildings.

"We don't have the funds or the manpower," Cobbett said.

Graffiti Removal of Los Angeles charged the city $40 a square foot to remove graffiti from buildings in the city before their contract with the city expired June 30.

One job, Cobbett said, could cost as much as $500 and often a wall was marked again the day after it was painted.

"It's a very expensive nuisance," Cobbett said.

But even when the city was helping remove graffiti from private property, Creeden still did it on her own.

Creeden, who has owned Pam's Place at 132 N. Bradford Ave. for 11 years, said she's been painting out graffiti at the center for four years.

"It gives the shopping center a stigma," Creeden said. "I've got clients who won't come here because of gang relations."

There was a time when her business would only get hit once a year but now it's worse.

Part of the problem, Creeden said, is because her business is a block from Valencia High School. When school starts, she said, the problem worsens.

Two months ago, the windows on the front of her store were etched — a problem she said she can't afford to fix.

And, to make matters worse, once a gang spray paints its logo on a wall, another gang will cross out the first logo and paint its own on the wall.

"Each time it's different color. It comes to the point where you have a total patchwork of gang graffiti," Creeden said.

The majority of graffiti appears in the Atwood and La Jolla neighborhoods in the southern part of the city.

That's also where most of the gangs in the city are located.

The Public Works Department is spending 80-100 manhours per week trying to contain the problem.

White worries that slower response times give taggers the impression that graffiti is acceptable. He hopes other people will join his fight against graffiti.

Creeden echoes his sentiments.

"To have my property destroyed makes me angry. It's really a shame and I'm not alone."

Promised Chamber of Commerce golf tourney winners this column, but press release from the chamber is late ... Do you think it's because Alta Vista made them replace all their divots?

Happy birthday (to the tune of Louie Louie) to Betty Escobosa and to Jerry Kern and Jerry "No, I don't look like Chevy Chase" Shepherd.

Visiting Placentia: Gladys Saruto from Torrington, Conn., visiting her sister, Marie Balduchi.

Did they first visit then decide to stay? Don't know, but welcome to Placentia: Bob Brownell, George Horton, Lucy Guiterrez, who after meeting neighbor Mabel Fullenwider, decided to stick around and Verda Poutred is still in the process of settling in. Speaking of settling in — geesh, I bet Val Molendyke will be happy when all the remodeling work is done. How do I know? Because, just like her, my house is filled with doors without door knobs, sheets over windows, and furniture piled in the center of the living room. Then there's our other neighbors doing the same thing. The "gem" street people all got the fixer-upper-bug at the same time. How about a neighborhood open house?

Meet Susan Sorensen. She is the new and very first Bradford House office manager. So when we call from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Thursday for tour or reservation information, Susan will be the house information person. "Bradford House was a must for me when I moved to Placentia in 1989," said Sorensen. Having been previously involved in the work of Wilmington's Historic Phinnias Banning House, it was no wonder that she easily fell in love with our historic home. Ahh, and we're glad she did!

Art association chooses officers

Bertha Fayan takes over the reins as president of the Placentia Art Association as the organization begins its 17th year under a board of directors elected for the 1992-93 season. Serving with Payan are Marcelle Taylor, vice president; Winona White, treasurer; and Kay Gunterman, secretary.

The group officially began the year at the Sept. 28 meeting, which featured Frances Fraser, career pastel artist, who demonstrated with a study of cats. Meetings are held in the Backs Building on Bradford Avenue in Placentia on the fourth Monday each month and introduces area artists who present a demonstration in various media. Each meeting also includes a juried show for members judged by the demonstrating artist.

The next meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Monday, Oct. 26. The public is invited to all meetings free of charge.

Also serving the art association for 1992-93 are Barbara Kimmel, Jean Cortland, Ferne Doll, and Ann Brown, indoor exhibits; Ruth Cartwright, juried and membership shows; Sylvia Hicks and Lois Curreri, ways and means; Rose Mary Massey, hospitality; Dorothy Mahan, mall shows and insurance; Bill Mitchell, newsletter; Libbi de Martino, membership; and Emilie Disen, publicity.

SHIFTS: Police try out new work schedule

FROM A1

new schedule in the last nine months of their current contract, officials said. Originally, a four-day, 10-hour work week was to be tried, but the schedule wouldn't Thomann.

But with more officers working a shift, that may not be necessary. With the new schedule, the department will be able to maintain a minimum number of officers in the field, Thomann said.

John Mogan, president of the Placentia Police Officer's Association said that where three officers would have been in the field, there have worked without hiring more officers, officials said.

In March, Anaheim adopted a 3-12 plan that officials said was designed to put more officers on the street during peak hours. Placentia's new schedule wasn't designed for that reason, Thomann said.

"Our problem is we don't have enough officers to run more than two shifts. So we really can't beef up patrol in peak hours," Thomann said.

The department will evaluate the 3-12 plan based on such factors as productivity, overtime and sick time.

"We're going to be able to provide adequate coverage," Thomann said.

Fatigue is one of the primary concerns as the department prepares to implement the plan, Thomann said.

"We're going to have to be pretty flexible in trying to work this out," he said. "Part of the problems we run into we're going to work out by trial and error."

Four days off will boost officer morale, officials said.

"It's a difficult time for law enforcement," Mogan said. "The comments we hear now when we arrest somebody are 'Are you going to beat me like Rodney King-?' ... When you hear it day after day that leads to low morale."

With the shortened work week officers are "going to have to hear that three days instead of five days a week. It will help you tolerate things better."

Both telephone and written department surveys were used in determining officers' preference in addition to discussions with officials in other cities that have already implemented the 3-12 plan, he said.

Service academies applications available

Applications for the United States Service Academies are now available from the district office of Congressman William E. Dannemeyer.

Nominations are based on the candidate's high school rank, GPA, performance on the SAT or ACT, athletics and leadership potential as demonstrated by participation in high school extra-curricular activities, community affairs or part-time employment.

Applicants must be residents of the 39th Congressional District, which includes Placentia, Yorba Linda, and most of Anaheim.

The deadline for all applications to Dannemeyer is Oct. 19. Those interested may apply by making an appointment with Patty Shay in the Fullerton District Office, 992-0141.

Kids tips

Scary thought

There's no trick to providing heart-healthy Halloween treats.

According to Coyness Ennix, president of the American Heart Association, a California affiliate, the key to choosing pre-packaged treats is to read the labels, noting sugar, fat and cholesterol contents. Total fat intake for children over 2 years old, as well as adults, should be no mroe than 30 percent of calories each day.

Alternatives to traditional Halloween treats include raisins, dried fruit, sugar-free gum and hard candy, candy corn, gummy bears, licorice, pretzels and graham cracker snacks.

And what about non-food treats? Little goblins like decorative pencils and erasers, stickers, small toys, books, puzzles, friendship bracelets and rings, hair acessories and small change.

Child care costs

Families with employed women spent an estimated $21 billion on child care in 1988, according to a report recently released by the U.S. Department of Commerce.

The survey indicates that 57 percent (about 30 million) of an estimated 53.4 million children under 15 years old had mothers who were employed. However, only 40 percent of the families of employed women with children under 15 made a monetary payment for child care services. Child care cases for these families averaged $54 per week, up from a 1987 average of $49.

For copies of the report, "Who's Minding the Kids," write the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington D.C. 20402.

DADS ON CALL

With moms in the work force, men are answering the call for volunteers in the schools

Todd Gallina For The North County News

By Barbara Giasone
North County News

Thirty years ago, cupcake-bearing room mothers were more than generous, they were godsends. With ample time to volunteer as field trip chaperones and reading tutors, the on-call moms lightened the teacher's load.

Gradually the miracle workers were absorbed by the family's need for dual-incomes and dads were asked to help fill the gap. According to 1991 U.S. Bureau of Census statistics, men accounted for 10 percent of the classroom volunteerism in comparison to 18 percent among the women.

The situation contrasts the early 19th century in England when factories hired whole families to work. When the infant mortality rose and machines became more efficient, women were removed from the work force and expected to improve home conditions, according to British sociologist Anne Oakley.

In 1737, more than 98 percent of married women in England worked outside the home. By 1911, more than 90 percent were employed solely as housewives.

In America, as the '80s woman returned to the job site, a new strain of class caretaker surfaced: the room grandfather. And in another role reversal, more fathers started toting their children to university day care centers while they pursued a higher education.

Mr. Moms and Mr. Grand- Moms quickly discovered mixing tradition with the non-traditional yielded personal rewards.

"I get the biggest charge from working one-on-one with a student on the intricacies of long division, then seeing that light bulb turn on. That's a real high," room grandfather Ed Ginter said.

The 66-year-old retired engineer volunteers once a week in his grandson's CORE class at Acacia School in Fullerton. Instructor Bobbie Lansman developed the informal "family class" concept in which parents help instruct the group, which stays together for three years.

"Mr. Ginter's real funny and puts actions into his stories," said Brandi Rodgers. Her friend Keith Hensperger said he liked having a grandfather image added to his personal visits "and model car fun" with his own grandpa.

Ginter's grandson, Jeff Craddock, said he felt lucky to have his grandfather help out. "He puts effort into helping the kids."

Ginter said many students today don't look toward the future to understand the value of education. "But I know I'm doing what I do because I'm concerned about what I read on the downward slide in public education. If I can get in the classroom and create one little spark with math or science, I'm answering the call."

Cal State Fullerton senior Donnell Olney, 21, juggles parenthood and education. Unmarried, he regularly takes care of 11-month-old Malcolm while the boy's mother lives and works at another location.

"It changed my life drastically, forcing me to settle down and focus on my studies. Changing diapers and fixing formulas were out of my league," Olney said.

Olney found help at CSF Children's Center where he drops off his son three times a week before dashing to his graphic arts classes. The individual attention, the father said, has helped Malcolm start learning to become independent.

"I've learned to cook more nutritionally balanced meals," Olney said. "I'm even keeping a food diary and baby book."

What advice does he have for other Mr. Moms?

"Just be sure to keep safety plugs in outlets," Olney advised. "Malcolm found a bobby pin on the floor and was just about ready to stick it into the outlet. You have to watch these little ones all the time, but it's worth it."

Former plant manager Jeff Rupp switched careers at age 36, counting on fulfilling his dream to get a teaching credential. He didn't count on the arrival of two daughters in the middle of his college studies.

With his wife, Harriett, holding down a full-time sales job, Rupp resurrected his Navy knowledge and plunged into the cooking-cleaning routines. Several days a week, he drops his children off at the CSF Children's Center, paying the $3 hourly rate.

"Sometimes it gets a little tough to study, especially when the older girl starts getting nuclear about 6 o'clock," Rupp said. "But then you realize that a lot of men are missing this kind of opportunity to spend quality time.

"I remember being burnt out by the time I got home from work, and just wanting the evening to relax," he said. "But I fortuantely have the time to really get to know the kids."

Assessing his unplanned situation, Rupp conceded, "The loss of one income was probably the toughest road to bear."

LEARNING CENTERS

Get the jump on computers

Fathers and grandfathers (as well as mothers and grandmothers) can help their youngsters as young as 3 learn to operate a computer.

At Futurekids learning centers, children under 4 learn about computers from a qualified teacher with the participation of a parent or grandparent. The parent or grandparent does not have to know about computers, the teacher will take care of that part.

They are there to put the child at ease and to help the teacher know what the youngster knows academically. In many instances, the parent or grandparent learns about the computer right along with the child.

People may be skeptical about 3 year olds learning anything about computers, but children don't know that they they shouldn't be able to learn. When young children are introduced to something new, they have no phobias, no fear of the unknown.

Youngsters are quick studies when it comes to computers. Even the youngest children can learn how to use computer keyboards and mice as input devices. Computers are great learning tools.

CHILDREN

Group care has advantages

Selecting the right care for young children challenges most working parents who struggle to balance their financial needs with the best choices for their children.

For many kids, child care provides the first opportunity to make a place in the world, separate from parents and siblings. Like schools, child care settings vary greatly in style, cost and quality.

Fortunately for many families, licensed group care is far more available than a decade ago. This particular type of care, which is generally more expensive than family care, such as a neighborhood home taking a few children and cheaper than in-home "nanny" care, offers parents more advantages. In particular, the illness of a care provider does not disrupt the quality or reliability of care. Families can count on a good center, day after day, year after year.

Several recent studies show that children in licensed group care are safer than children in any other environment, including their own homes. And children who spend a significant amount of time with groups of children in a planned educational setting consistently demonstrate enhanced intellectual and social development.

Recently, many employers and developers have begun to incorporate child care into their overall corporate planning. Fran Brogna, director of Discovery Place, a licensed center opened as an integral feature of the new Brea Marketplace, notes that many of the children who regularly attend her center have parents who work in or near the development. She adds that her center was also designed to provide sporadic care for other children.

From the first stages of the Marketplace project, Lowe Development Corp. worked with potential tenants, the city of Brea, and nearby employers to include a public child care center as part as part of their community outreach.

The result, Discovery Place, has now been open to the public for over a year, providing full and part-time care for infants through 5-year-olds.

LEARNING SKILLS

Test-taking strategies that work

By Gary R. Gruber, Ph.D.
Sylvan Learning Centers

How should college-bound students prepare for the SAT/ACT Test? There are many books on the subject as well as audio cassettes and courses. The decision is an important one, since scores often determine which colleges students will consider, even before other considerations such as tuition and location.

Test-taking gimmicks sometimes work in the short term; but students who develop critical thinking skills use them often during their lifetime — in college, on the job and throughout a career and certainly on the test. The key is to concentrate not on finding the answer, but solving the problem.

Specific critical thinking skills can enable you to extract necessary information from a problem that will lead you to an answer.

Here are a few overall test-taking strategies that work:

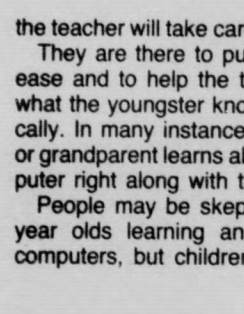

- Be familar with the directions to the question types so you don't have to read them on the actual exam.
- If you can eliminate one or more wrong choices, guess. You are penalized only a small percentage if you get the wrong answer.
- Write as much as you want in your test booklet. Extend lines to diagrams, circle key words, underline key prefixes and roots of words, label sides of figures with specific letters, etc.
- In word problems, translate words to math forms.

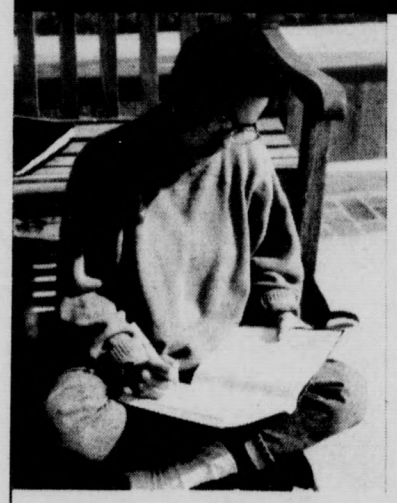

For more information on critical thinking skills and Sylvan's SAT/ACT Strategies Course, call 1-(800) 521-2900 for the Sylvan Learning Center in your neighborhood and for your free copy of "The Guide to Good Studying."

Bingo: It's all in the cards

Players strive for correct numbers, letters

By Tim Dermody
North County News

Scores of cheery optimistic people flank long folding tables positioned perpendicularly to an altar-like raised area.

Crowning the stage, sitting amid a seeming rubble of desks, carts and odd-looking implements, is a well-watched man who holds the hopes and dreams of every one of those folks in a little wire cage to his right.

The tension and excitement inside the Canyon High cafeteria is so thick you could cut it with an I-29.

Palms sweat, hearts pound and the blood races quickly. The man onstage flips a switch, throwing the audience into a mini-frenzy. In anticipation — even B-4 the man speaks — the crowd perks its ears and straightens up in its chairs.

> "This is about the best time you can have with your clothes on. Seriously, though, Bingo is a lot of fun. It gives us retired people a chance to get together with each other and, if you're lucky, win a little money. It's not as expensive as (Las) Vegas, but just as much fun."

The whir of electricity cuts through the silent hum of conversation and illuminates two rectangular portable scoreboards draping each wall. G-12, it's getting exciting.

Finally, after what seems like an, O-71, interminably long time, the man retrieves a colored ball from its cage and turns it over and over in his hand.

Clearing his throat first, he announces: N-37.

Heads bob and arms move in marking motions as the crowd emits a combination of gasps, short hoorays, curses and the unmistakable sighs of disappointment. In a few seconds, it turns

MAGIC FUNDRAISER

Club has something up its sleeve

By Tim Dermody
Features editor

Most people enjoy a magic show and everybody loves a merry time.

Knowing that, the organizers of the North Orange County Exchange Club think they've hit upon a winning formula for their Oct. 24 fundraiser.

The group has scheduled "A Mad and Merry Magic Show" to be held twice that Saturday in the Unocal Auditorium at 3575 E. Imperial Highway in Brea.

Master magician and longtime Yorba Linda resident Gus Searcy headlines the two performances, which will also include appearances from Petrick and Mia, a pair of European enchanters recently voted the Hollywood Magic Castle's "Visiting Magicians of the Year."

The 2 p.m. show is being put on specifically for the children who are served by the center. Several local service organizations and area businesses have purchased the tickets for the children.

The second show is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Founded in 1911, the Exhange Club sponsors more than 70 nonprofit child-abuse centers around the country. Club centers train and supervise volunteers to go into targeted homes and teach positive parenting skills and help build self esteem.

The group's aim is to stop child abuse in its initial stages.

An internationally acclaimed magician, Searcy has enjoyed all the trappings of a professional performing career and played all the great clubs in faraway, exotic locales.

But the road lost its allure at some point in his career and Searcy retired from touring to concentrate instead on his inventions. His Butler in the Box and MasterVoice — both patented artificial intelligence control systems — have been featured in the Wall Street Journal and on several nationally syndicated television programs.

BINGO: Success is in the cards

its attention back toward the man onstage, who is busy tallying his own marks and attending to the next colored ball.

Welcome to Bingo, Wednesday night at Canyon High School in Anaheim Hills.

"This is about the best time you can have with your clothes on," cracked 70-year-old Bob Mann, a Wednesday night regular.

"Seriously, though, Bingo is a lot of fun. It gives us retired people a chance to get together with each other and, if you're lucky, win a little money. It's not as expensive as (Las) Vegas, but just as much fun."

Bingo is a bastardization of the lottery or numbers games that originated in the early days of the Roman Empire. Back then, Roman emperors used the lottery to raise money for public works projects and increase imperial revenue.

In lottery, tickets bearing different numbers are placed on sale. At a predetermined time, numbers are then drawn randomly from a hat, barrel or cage. Those possessing tickets with winning numbers win part of the lottery pot.

Though similar to the lottery, Bingo is unique.

Running horizontally across the Bingo card are the letters, B-I-N-G-O. Lined up in rows below each letter are random numbers from 1 through 75. Bingo players buy their cards from sellers before the game.

The game begins with the emcee or Bingo caller mixing up a vat or barrel that holds the numbered balls. When the ball comes to the surface, the emcee plucks it up and calls it to the players who respond by marking their cards.

Multiple cards are allowed at most games. Most Canyon High participants play an average of six cards each.

"It doesn't matter how many cards you have if the numbers don't come up," said Sheila Mann, who this night is playing different 10 cards. "You have to have luck. You have to see yourself winning."

Bob Mann said he's won a few Bingo over the years but none in the last five. Despite her sad pronouncements and tales of Bingo woe, Sheila Mann, by contrast, has won five $500 pots, several smaller cash prizes and a Caribbean cruise — all this year.

"It also helps if you play with a partner," Bob Mann said. "That way, you win if they win. Bingo has kept this marriage together."

Gambling is illegal in most states — and in recent years Bingo has come under closer scrutiny. Some places have outlawed the games altogether or eliminated cash pots in lieu of gifts and prizes.

In the past, constabularies and other law-enforcement officials ignored Bingo games — largely because they were operated by churches, fraternal organizations and services groups.

In the strictest sense of the word, however, Bingo has remained legal because it is a game of skill, as opposed to a game of chance.

"There's nothing wrong with a little Bingo," Bob Mann said. "As long as horse racing stays legal, Bingo's going to be safe. It's just a little harmless fun for people who like to get together."

In Anaheim and Anaheim Hills, Bingo players can choose from at least 12 games that run throughout the week. The cities of Fullerton, Orange, Brea, La Habra, Placentia and Yorba Linda also have Bingo games at various locations.

If you're looking for a Bingo game, Mann suggests calling churches, Elks lodges or your city's community services department.

"We play four times a week and we have friends who play even more than that," he said. "Anyone who wants to play Bingo, can play seven nights a week if they want."

Ambitious musical recalls theater's Golden Era

By Peggy O'Hara
Correspondent

A new American musical — "Hurry, Hurry Hollywood" — premiered last weekend at the La Mirada Theatre of the Performing Arts.

And if audience reaction can be used as a gauge for success, this enchanting music-filled spectacle should be popular coast to coast.

Last Friday night's standing-room-only crowd shouted and applauded loudly, and also gave standing ovations for each performance.

Presented by the Whittier-La Mirada Musical Theatre Association, this dazzling song-and-dance story takes theatergoers back to an era when Broadway performers discovered the movies, moved west and then helped create a Golden Era of Hollywood musicals.

By staging a show that celebrates the La Mirada-Whittier Musical Theatre Association's 40th anniversary, the local cast is taking a big risk.

It's not often that local groups underwrite original musicals in the splashy, song-belting American style.

For those who remember the times — and those who haven't — "Hurry Hurry Hollywood" is an entertaining, enchanting trip back down memory lane.

By staging a show that celebrates the La Mirada-Whittier Musical Theatre Association's 40th anniversary, the local cast is taking a big risk.

It is also an enlightening method of seeing, in person, the sometimes infamous directors, writers, gossip columnists and dedicated singers and dancers who made it possible.

You'll leave this production and its feel-good attitude humming many of the memorable tunes like "Singing in the Rain" and "42nd St," which are performed in a most delightful manner.

Continuing through Oct. 24, Thursdays through Sundays. Call 994-6310 for information.

Local colleges and universities are opening and closing several productions, which include the contributions of many of the area's most talented and enthusiastic theater students:

At Cal State Fullerton, local actors represent a major part of the cast: Graduate students, Leslie Mitts and Jason Bosles, along with Brady Symons, Lara Hannemand, Jeanne Finnerty perform in this well-known Beth Hanley drama. The set is designed by Kelly Shea, another Fullerton resident.

Continuing through Oct. 25, this popular drama is playing on the Arena Stage. For tickets call 773-3371.

Opening at Fullerton College today is the classic French farce "Tartuffe," directed by Placentia resident Pam Richarde, a well-known North Orange County teacher and artist.

"Tartuffe" plays in the Campus Theatre through Oct. 25. Call 871-8101 for tickets and information.

CONCERT

Strait can't deliver the hot country

By Barrett Marson
Correspondent

When it comes to country-and-western music, few places exhibit as much enthusiasm and interest as Orange County.

The stock in the ever-widening popular music has escalated over the last few years — and with hot, new performers like Garth Brooks and Billy Ray Cyrus coming on the scene everyday — there does not seem to be any slowing down.

Cyrus recently played sold-out, well-received concerts here, while Brooks' new album continues to sell well in Orange County.

And then there is George Strait, a country-music singer, songwriter and performer in the traditional sense.

His success in the mid '80s with hits like "All My Ex's Live in Texas" and "Ocean Front Property" fueled his good fortunes. Now, he has a movie coming out, "Pure Country," and a soundtrack to go with it.

And a concert tour to promote both.

However, Strait seemed less-than-compelling during a 27-song, 2-hour performance last weekend at the Pacific Amphitheater in Costa Mesa.

He played the favorites and his many radio hits, and added several songs from the soundtrack. However, he failed to engage the audience, which seemed to turn out only to hear the older songs.

To be sure, Strait is still a good country singer, but it seems he is being swept aside by the new youth movement that has burst upon th ecountry music scene.

Strait and his Ace-in-the-Hole band were bothered for most of the night by technical difficulties that created a buzz nearly as loud as the vocals.

Kahrs has become a spirited performer

Singer-songwriter leaves the liquor business for blossoming career in country-western field

By Tim Dermody
Features editor

The last many of his friends and neighbors heard, Till K. Kahrs was working in the liquor industry, researching potential markets and handling regional and national accounts.

But three years ago the former Placentia resident left the spirits business for a more-spirited business.

Nowadays, Kahrs is a full-time performer, a singer-songwriter with an upcoming album, a record contract, a host of club dates and a potential international audience.

Kahrs' old pals can catch up with him next Thursday night when he performs his country-and-western repertoire at the Regency Coffee Roast in Brea.

"It's a nice chance for me to get together with some old friends," Kahrs said recently. "I've already talked to a few people who said they'd stop by, but I'd love to see as many people from the old neighborhood as possible. It'll be nice to get together again."

Till K. Kahrs was born in Hamburg, Germany, and moved to Placentia with his family shortly thereafter. He attended Sierra Vista Elementary, Tuffree Junior High and graduated from El Dorado in 1975.

Kahrs earned a psychology degree from UC Irvine, and returned to Pepperdine University a few years later for a master's in business administration.

After working several years for Gallo Wines as a field representative, Kahrs moved over to Seagram's and then finally to Heublein's as a national accounts regional manager.

In the mid-1980s — about the time Kahrs realized he had wrested as much excitement from the liquor industry as possible — he traded his pin-striped suits and power ties for a twangy guitar and a country attitude.

Though raised on rock'n'roll, Kahrs discovered he had the voice, the style and the sensibilities of a country-and-western singer.

"Music was always in my heart and soul so one day I decided to go for it," he said. "I'd always gravitated toward rock'n'roll, but I realized that my style is of a country-and-western nature. As I went along, I just got more in to it and two years ago I started trying to get a recording contract."

Problem was, Kahrs found the American market sated with country artists. If he wanted to succeed in the field, Kahrs would have to find a niche or a gimmick.

Deciding on the former, Kahrs approached a European company about a German-language album. Autograph Records liked the idea, signed Kahrs and fetched him to Holland, where he spent three months recording his first work.

> "Music was always in my heart and soul so one day I decided to go for it. I'd always gravitated toward rock'n'roll, but I realized that my style is of a country-and-western nature. As I went along, I just got more in to it and two years ago I started trying to get a recording contract."
>
> Till K. Kahrs
> Musician

The loosely translated, "Room to Breath Again" — is due out in Europe before year's end.

Kahrs said Autograph eventually plans to market him in the United States. Until then, he makes his "Playin' for Keeps," demo tape is available at most of his club dates.

The demo's title track concerns the maturation process and examines how growing up changes people. "Kickin' Back," meantime, explores fast lanes and rat races, two routes that the former executive is quite familiar with.

Like many artists, Kahr writes about real life.

"The music is very real and down to Earth," Kahrs said. "It's personal eperiences about love, and the trials and tribulations of getting along with somebody. It's about ups and downs.

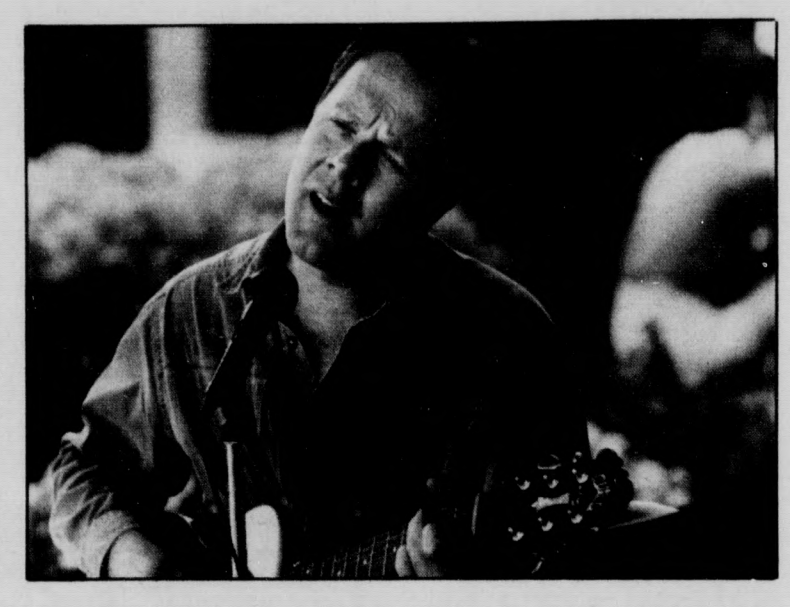

"I've alwasy found that for me music was kind of therapy. When you talk about what's going on with yourself, you find that you're talking about a lot of other people's experiences, too."

Kahr said that Autograph executives are confident and optimistic about "Room to Breath Again," and will mount a European tour to support it some time next year.

Until then, Kahrs continues to hone his act and sharpen his style with club appearances throughout the area.

Yet few dates excite him like next Thursday's at the Regency Coffee Roast, 2500 E. Imperial Highway.

"Come on down," he said. "I'd love to see everybody from the old neighborhood again."

Former north Orange County resident Till K. Kahrs gave up business for a country-music career.

I am who I am

Talented Valencian establishing her own stardom

Sam Gangwer/North County News

Brandy Smerko is set to help Valencia's make a bid for the Orange League championship.

By Rusty Evans
North County News

Brandy Smerko is no Amy Tamblyn.

That's something Smerko wants to make perfectly clear.

No one asked her if she wanted to be the one annointed to lead the Valencia High girls volleyball team to another Orange League title now that Tamblyn has graduated.

However, now that she is, don't ask her to fill anyone's shoes.

"I don't try to follow Amy," said Smerko, a senior middle blocker. "Amy wasn't a bigmouth. She was a good leader but I don't think I'm really like Amy."

Last year, when Tamblyn led the Tigers to the quarterfinals of the CIF Southern Section 2-A playoffs, Smerko was content to be a member of the supporting cast.

Now Tamblyn, a third-team All-CIF selection, has graduated and moved on, and whether Smerko likes it or not, she is now that beacon for the Tigers.

"She's the one we look for when we need the big kill," Valencia coach Dean Yoshimura said. "When she's in the front row we expect her to do most of the blocking. She leads in a different way, but the kids know that she's put in her time. She's been playing club volleyball for the last three years and they know she has the experience and she has the know-how, so the kids respect her."

Amber Dickey, senior teammate of Smerko, says that her court presence makes Smerko a natural to assume the role of a leader.

"Amy was a big loss, but I think we're going to do all right this year," Dickey said. "Brandy's taken on a lot of the pressure. She's the person we look to when we need the point. She's totally controlled and she never gets down on anyone or herself and she always does the right thing."

> "Usually I'm really quiet, but this year I try to do more for the less experienced people and try to help them out and coach them on. I'm more vocal than last year, but I'm really a quiet player. I don't pattern myself after Amy at all."
>
> Brandy Smerko
> Valencia volleyball player

That was a new experience for Smerko, who also had more expected of her by her coach. She found with greater rewards came greater responsibility.

"I'm not like really used to taking over the leadership or anything, but there's a little pressure," Smerko said. "When I make a mistake, it's like, 'My god!' — I'm not supposed to make mistakes because he counts on me."

The pressure was on from the very start of the season and it intensified when the Tigers lost two matches in their own tournament. They hit rock bottom in a three-game loss to Cypress in that tournament. It was then that Smerko felt her teammates' eyes looking to her and seniors Dickey and Nikki Kubota for answers.

"It was frustrating," Smerko said. "The three of us are supposed to be the best out there and when we're not doing well, everyone looks at us like, 'Why aren't you doing good?' They look up to us."

After the loss to Cypress, Valencia rebounded with a big win over Esperanza, one in which Smerko had 10 kills and seven blocks. Last Wednesday, Smerko had 18 kills and 10 blocks in a win over Canyon. The wheels of progress were turning at last.

"I think we just started out a little slow and the confidence wasn't there, but once she had two good games under her belt, she was fine," said Yoshimura.

If Smerko is confident, it means she's playing her game on the court. The team needs a leader? Fine. She's accepted the responsibility, but on her own terms.

"Usually I'm really quiet, but this year I try to do more for the less experienced people and try to help them out and coach them on," Smerko said. "I'm more vocal than last year, but I'm really a quiet player. I don't pattern myself after Amy at all."

PREP FOOTBALL

Unbeaten Hawks not an Empire League favorite

Not as long as No.1 Esperanza resides there

By Lance Pugmire
North County News

In any other league, in any other season, El Dorado High's football team would be a much-liked favorite as a team possessing a 5-0 non-league record entering league play.

This is the Empire League, though. And this is 1992.

This is the league made famous by Esperanza, presently ranked No. 1 in Orange County, and Los Alamitos, ranked No. 2.

Los Alamitos is the defending CIF Southern Section Division III champion. Esperanza, the 1990 Division III champion, was runner-up a year ago and hasn't lost a regular season game in 25 contests since November, 1989.

So where does that leave El Dorado, a team which has matched Esperanza and Los Alamitos' 5-0 starts and is now ranked in the Orange County top 10 poll (No. 9) for the first time during the stay of four-year coach Rick Jones?

"What (this league) does is makes it so you better develop courage quick because every team is strong and can rise up and beat you," Joners said. "We're 5-0 and we're the smallest school in the league (on attendance figures). And we've got 35 kids on our roster.

"You can either stand and fight or run and hide. We're standing and fighting."

The Golden Hawks will begin to find out what their five Empire League opponents have in store for them when they play host to Katella Friday night at 7:30 in the league-opener at Bradford Stadium.

Following that is a Cerritos College meeting with Los Alamitos.

Los Alamitos boasts a run-and-shoot offense directed by Orange County's passing yardage leader, senior Tim Carey, who still has his favorite receivers, George Sagen and Don Ruberio, left from the Griffins' championship team.

Recently, Los Alamitos has been especially impressive, posting two straight shutouts including a 56-0 win over Lakewood Oct. 8.

As for Esperanza, defense again has been the dominating factor. The Aztecs have shut out four opponents already this season and a surprisingly effective running game has helped the Aztecs outscore their foes, 217-14, this year.

Nevertheless, Aztecs coach Gary Meek expresses concern over the success El Dorado has achieved thus far.

"They've had five or six kids who've started since they've been sophomores," Meek said. "Those types of things build great teams. They're doing things that have a high percentage of success. They're doing what they can do best."

A balanced offense and a defense stingy about surrendering points was El Dorado's forte during non-league contests.

Senior quarterback Jim Beck has completed a sparkling 68 percent of his passes (43 of 63) for 615 yards and four touchdowns. Running back Spencer Frost leads the ground game with 351 yards and four touchdowns. Tight end Michael Haynes is averaging 16.9 yards a reception. He too has scored four touchdowns.

The Golden Hawks defense has given up only 22 points. The most one team has scored was seven points, by Troy in El Dorado's 28-7 victory.

A Katella passing game led by junior quarterback Jaret Wright and a Cypress running attack paced by Wes Merriweather will test the low scoring average. Loara (0-5) has also showed recent signs of improvement.

"We have a good football team and now we've got to try to complete the work we've started," Jones said. "Our coaches and players have to operate at 100 percent capacity 100 percent of the time. We're not going to out-talent anybody, but the great thing about these guys is their spirit. This is a real motivational challenge."

Jones pointed to the Golden Hawks' 7-6 victory over Brea Olinda last Friday, a win earned by a fourth-quarter touchdown drive which concluded with less than four minutes remaining in the game.

"When we had every reason to give up, to think, 'Hey, 4-1 is still pretty good,' we didn't," Jones said. "That's what it's all about."

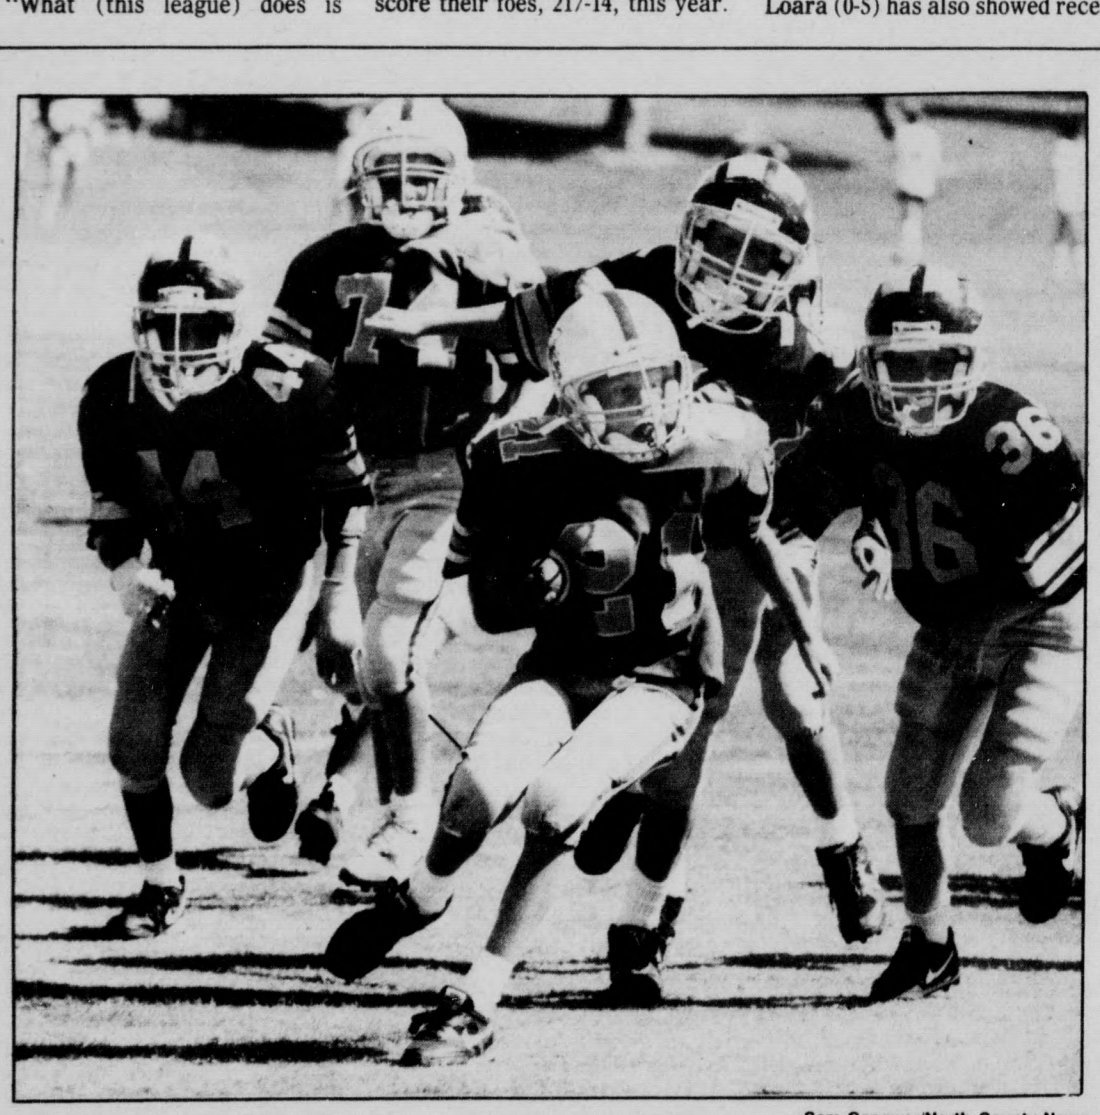

Is it enough to carry El Dorado to an Empire League championship?

"El Dorado is capable of going into every game, laying it on the line and, when the dust settles, knowing we couldn't give any more," Jones said. "I don't know if that's good enough, but that's genuinely how the kids feel. Right now, that's where we're at."

Valencia (3-2) at Western (4-1): Valencia has looked like a typical Valencia team in its three wins — powerful. Even in one of its losses — a 14-0 setback against Servite, ranked third in the county at the time — Coach Mike Marrujo was not totally displeased with his team's effort. After all, the score was only 7-0 with two minutes left in the game.

The Tigers have rolled to wins of 34-0 (Central) and 49-20 (La Mirada) in their final tune-ups before the start of league and definitely have some momentum going into tonight's game with one of the preseason favorites to win the league.

Chris Draft has rushed for 637 yards, averaging 7.7 yards per carry with six touchdowns for Valencia.

Selling doesn't end with the season

Patrick Veling's
PROPERTY LINES

Orange County resale housing inventories remain near record high levels despite the recent end to the traditional home selling season. The start of the school year usually sees a decrease in active inventories.

My most recent analysis of active resale inventories throughout Orange County instead suggests that home sellers are leaving their properties on the market. This fact, combined with a substantial decrease in buyer activity during the past 90 days, will likely continue to result in lower home transfer prices.

The results of my analysis are not good news for Orange County home sellers faced with financial difficulties, job transfers, or other motivating factors beyond their control.

With such a large number of homes from which to choose, today's buyers frequently present multiple offers until they find a seller motivated enough to sell at a price well below market. Analysts concur that buyers wouldn't have such luxuries if sellers who are less motivated removed their homes from the market.

Inventory levels are not the only factor creating the current buyer's market. A visible decrease in the number of active potential buyers, recent and anticipated job losses, and continued record low consumer confidence are all fueling the market.

The most important influence over which sellers have control, however, is inventory — the question to place or leave their home on the market for sale.

Motivated sellers in today's market recognize this and price their homes aggressively against closed comparable sales. Such positioning wouldn't be required — and a stabilized market would result — if the large number of unmotivated sellers would simply remove their homes from the market.

Unmotivated sellers know who they are. So do their real estate agents. They are the ones whose homes are in poor condition. They are the ones who don't allow their agent to use a lockbox. They are the ones whose asking price is 20 percent higher than the most recent comparable sale "because I just replaced the bathroom fixtures."

The worst offender is the seller whose bottom-line sales price is above market value — a price that even in the event of an open escrow, will never appraise to allow the required financing.

So the real culprits in all of this are the agents and brokers who continue to list and have flooded the market with homes owned by unmotivated sellers who we can assume know no better.

This is a wake-up call to all of them: Unless we collectively turn this market around by ridding it of unmotivated sellers, we will certainly be to blame for the turmoil ahead. And it will be far worse than anything we have seen to date. Texas and New England can happen here. And it will unless we all act. Now.

Here are the results of my inventory analysis by area city. The numbers represent inventory in months' supply of all property types and price ranges. Marketing time can be estimated by dividing the result by 2 (assuming the average home will sell in the average time).

Anaheim: 11.6 months. Anaheim Hills 12.6. Brea: 10.2 months. Buena Park: 12.5 months. Fullerton: 12.7 months. La Habra: 14.0 months. La Habra Heights: 34.6 months. Orange: 13.5 months. Placentia: 13.5 months. Whittier: 11.8 months. Yorba Linda: 12.9 months.

The month's supply formula seasonally adjusts sales and purchase activity to provide an accurate snapshot of the real estate market. The results are a more accurate barometer of the market than the number of active listings or number of recent sales.

Prudential ready for annual holiday festival

The Prudential California Realty in Anaheim Hills is putting the final touches on their preparation for this weekend's Holiday Harvest Festival, said a director of the event.

The annual festival is their biggest event to raise funds to help feed the needy families of Orange County during the holidays.

"We've been busy pricing all the items we have for the garage sale and we have some terrific items, lots of furniture and clothing and some really unique treasures," says Vicki Salyer, who is one of the directors of the event.

The recent Canyon High school boutique was a huge success and the team at Prudential is looking forward to following the example set by that event, according to Sayler.

"Many of the same crafters will be participating in our boutique that participated in our Canyon High event," said Sayler. "They will be selling beautiful items and most of the crafters will be donating an item for a raffle to be held at the end of the day."

In addition to the boutique and garage sale, there will be a petting zoo for the children and food booths. The merchants of the El Rancho shopping center will be participating in the event too with specials and savings. The garage sale starts at 7 a.m. and the boutique, bake sale and petting zoo open at 9 a.m.

For more information, call Sayler at the Prudential California Realty at (714) 998-7250.

Rates as of Oct. 1, 1992. All loans listed are conventional 30/30 for loans below $202,300 except as specified in the "Notes" column. Points are the per cent of the loan balance paid to the lender at the time of loan closing. For fixed-rate loans, borrowers are advised to compare lock-in features; for adjustable programs ask the lenders if the loan has the potential for negative amortization as well as other important factors such as the index, margin, Caps, insurance and lock-in. Lender Type is: B = bank; K = mortgage banker; R = mortgage broker; S = savings & loan. Mortgage bankers and brokers are licensed by the California Department of Real Estate as either a broker or corporation. For more information call Calif. DRE at (916) 739-3758.

All Annual Percentage Rates (A.P.R.) are calculated by Mortgage News Co. based on a $202,300 loan amount, the points as shown and $700 total fees. An A.P.R. is an estimated annual cost of the loan to the borrower, and they are included in this chart for comparison only. When applying for a loan, Federal Truth-in-Lending law requires lenders to calculate an A.P.R. specific to each loan offer. All quotes are not an offer to enter into a loan agreement. All rates are subject to change; verify rates and terms prior to applying for a loan. All lenders charge other fees in addition to those shown, as well as provide loans with different rates and terms for different loan amounts. For a consumer guide on how to shop for a mortgage, send $4.50 check payable to Mortgage News Co., 1505 East 17th St., Suite 211, Santa Ana, CA 92701. Steve & Cynthia's
MARKET TRENDS

Anyone who has owned stocks or bonds, or who has been to a gambling casino, knows how easy it is to cut your profits short and let losses run. The key to success in any market, whether it be investments, real estate, collectable, etc., is to zig while others zag. Buy, when everyone else is selling. Sell, when there is a mad rush to buy.

As we look at today's real estate market, the stars are in perfect alignment for those brave souls who are considering the purchase of a new home.

We are in a buyer's market of historic proportions. Prices are down, interest rates are at rock bottom levels, there are zillions of homes to choose from and an infinite number of loan programs available.

So why aren't people buying? First time buyers as well as move-up buyers are staying out of the market.

To list just a few reasons:

1. Job security (or insecurity if you prefer).
2. Overall mistrust and a lack of faith in our state and national leaders.
3. The continuous stream of economic doom and gloom splashed across our news headlines and TV screens.
4. The upcoming presidential election.
5. The general perception that home prices will be lower a year from now.

Enough already!

This is a great time to buy real estate. What will it take to get this market cranked up? Consider this:

Today's low, low interest rates provide tremendous price protection against any future decline in home values. To illustrate what we mean by "price protection," look at the following.

Buyer A purchases a new home and obtains a $200,000, 30 year fixed rate loan at 10 percent — the prevailing rate less than one year ago.

Buyer A will have a lower monthly mortgage payment of approximately $290 than Buyer B. In five short years, Buyer A will have realized interest expense savings of over $17,000 ($290 x 60 months). If these monthly savings ($290) are invested at a modest rate (7 percent), actual savings during the first five years for Buyer A would be over $20,000. In 15 years, Buyer A will save over $50,000 compared to Buyer B, $90,000 if invested. In 30 years, when the final loan is due, Buyer A's savings at a minimum will total over $100,000, or an even more amazing $350,000 if we allow these monies to compound.

In this example, the lower interest rate afforded to Buyer A directly results in a future cushion against any short term decline in home values.

It's time for the "wait and see" crowd to move off the sidelines. One of the biggest complaints Realtors hear are from people who didn't buy in the past and lament they made a mistake.

When prices begin to edge up again, and they will, and mortgage rates climb, it will signal the market for buyers is shifting.

Contrarians arise. Make your move. That is, move to your first home. Move up to a bigger home. Risky? Sure. What in life isn't?

Tarbell helps Holiday Cantree at extravaganza

Customers partake in some of the yogurt that will be offered.

Everyone at the Anaheim Hills Shopping Village, on the corner of Santa Ana Canyon Road and Fairmont, is kicking off the holidays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 17, in a big way with a sidewalk extravaganza to benefit Holiday Cantree. Tarbell Realtors is coordinating the event which includes Tarbell's annual pumpkin patch with free pumpkins given one to a family. Tarbell will also sell craft and gift items, baked goods and gift certificates from local merchants. Other crafters will sell crafts, gift items, toys and specialty clothes.

Every merchant in the center will have a special for the day and make a donation to Cantree. You will find specials in women's fashions, interior decorating consultation, video sales, office supply items, and photo work. Hughes Market will have outdoor sales items. Plan to stay for lunch with 99 cent Villa Burgers, $1.50 slice of pizza with medium soft drink, 79 cent regular donut and medium drink and free frozen yogurt (donations to Cantree cheerfully accepted). Buy baked goods or gift certificates for future dining delights.

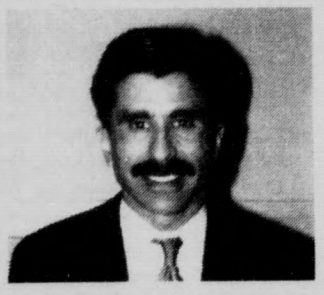

Activities and specials abound. Try your luck at a game where you can win a mini-cruise and other prizes at Travel Agents' International. Join in the 15-minute free aerobic dance classes every hour from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. with a Disney theme — fun for kids and young-hearted adults. Watch young students demonstrate the art of Taekwondo. Women will enjoy a free makeover and color analysis by Sebastian International, the free beauty supply samples and prizes at Colour Studio and the fre nail polish with any service at Top Nails. Village Cleaners is offering 20 percent off any cleaning from Oct. 17 to 30 with this article.

Professionals in the center are all participating. Twenty-five percent of an eye exam, glasses or contacts ordered between Oct. 17-24 from Dr. Gary Lovick, optometrist, will be donated to Cantree if you mention this promotion. Dr. Andrew Kim, dentist, will give a special discount on X-ray and exam — get a coupon from Dr. Kim or Tarbell for a later appointment.

All this is to benefit Holiday Cantree, an annual event made successful by the dedication of local realtors. All proceeds will be used to feed lots of needy families in Orange County during the holiday season. For information, call Tarbell Realtors at 637-7240. Come early on Saturday and have fun.
